

Let's Talk Online Harms

Alistair Barfield: a biography

Ali is AuDHD and is passionate about neurodiversity and the digital world.

He has extensive experience working in SEND school settings both in an educational and pastoral capacity.

His training draws on his lived experiences of autism/ADHD. He has worked for over 5 years with Britain's neurodivergent community both in school settings and as part of the voluntary and community sector.

He is particularly interested in the overlap between neurodivergence and radicalism and is an experienced public speaker.

Alistair is the director and founder of Deflect and Protect, a non-profit organisation focused on digital harms.
